LINES to the President-"May good digestion wait on appetite."

To-pay the gobbling gobbler will be

Senator Quay, for, didn't he make General Harrison President?

This is where the boys err, but they refuse to see their error and won't be comforted unless they get "recognition." Now recognition, in the vocabulary of the politician, means office and lots of it. Senator Quay must satisfy the longings which he has encouraged, or the boys will lay slege to his scalp.

Good Reason to Be Thankful. No people ever had more reason to be grateful to the "Giver of all good and perfect gifts." This country has been blessed above all others. It has the best of governments, an intelligent and in the main a law-abiding population. It grows in numbers and in vigor, and offers to the industrious unequalled opportunities to earn a livelihood and accumulate wealth. A time of great prosperity is now with the country, and the promise is that next year will be even better than the closing months of the present year.

The people of West Virginia have reason to be grateful. They see their State growing as it never grew before. Immigration is coming in and money with it. Railroads are being constructed through regions of vast natural resource which until now have been no more productive than when the savage roamed over them. Railroads are being projected through regions just as rich, grateful to the "Giver of all good and perfect gifts." This country has been blessed above all others. It has the best projected through regions just as rich. and the laudable cupidity of capital insures their early development. Wheeling's prosperity should move to gratitude every man, woman and child interested in her welfare. The

Now and then the country is taught a handsome and thriving city of 50,000 population thought more of adding to its wealth than of protecting it. Great manufacturing establishments grew up, handsome homes were built, millions of money were invested. When the fire came, with all that Boston and other neighbors could add in the hour of calamity only fifteen fire engines were at hand to throw water on eighty acres of burning factories and homes. If Lynn could restore what she has lost by this fire, she would gladly go to such a fire equipment as would be ade-quate to save at least one of her great factories. If she could have dealt with the fire when it was first seen, the fames could have been held where they started in one factory.

Fortunate escape year after year makes cities careless. Few of them are protected as they should be. They prosper and grow and expect the equipment which was barely sufficient ten years ago to be adequate to the needs of to-day. After every great fire there are good resolutions, soon to be forgotten and broken. Fire underwriters are paying more attention than formerly to the matter of public protection against fire The day will come when they will show by their rates more clearly than they do now that it pays to put money in a good fire department.

To-day the gobbling gobber will be gobbied. May he rest in peace.

A good home and a good digestion should make anybody thankin.

We have had rain enough to be thank fall for, if rain be what we wanted.

A good way to enjoy a holiday is to be cheerful yourself and try to make everybody around you laugh the buttons off his vest.

The chronic growler finds nothing to give thanks for. He isn't even glad he is living, and some other people agree with him.

Governon Wilson, you could have made us more thankful if you would. But you hardened your Democratic heart and stiffened your Bourbon neck.

The New York Evening Telegram calis Chicago into enly thinks but she does.

Some of the boys would be a little louder in their thanksgiving if they have been looking for lo, these many days.

For twenty-five years Thanksgiving Day has been a National festival. Every year it has taken a stronger hold on the people. It is now as firmly rooted as the Fourth of July.

Depostrons of the Lawrenceville Bank, Pittsburgh, are determined to give the President and Cashier a chance to show that they are honest men. If, as is alleged, they received deposits knowing the bank to be insolvent, they treated their depositors badly. The honest thing is to shit down when the jig is up.

A hig Stan and His Sealp.

Unlees Senator Quay puts the President on the stand and gets favorable testimony, the Pennsylvania politicians will not believe that he has no more influence at the Wild House than he professes to have. The same politicians expected a feast of fat things through Senator Quay, for, didn't he make General Harrison President?

How is This for Spring Pigs?

Last Saturday T. T. Maxwell, of Valley Grove, one of the leading farmers in that part of Liberty district, this county, sold to Caskell Bros., butchers at Roney's Point, a lot of pigs that were fallowed last April. Their average weight was 2732 pounds. They were halt-bloods being Poland China and Chester White crossed. A cross of these breads gives the farmer a most profitable pig. Mr. Maxwell's pigs were not fattened especially for the purpose of making a showing. They were taken weaned from the sow when six weeks old.

solid old city, holding fast to all that has made her what she is, secure in her well carned position, is moving ahead faster than at any other time in her history.

Everything is moving, everybody prosperous who is willing to work. There are abundant reasons to be happy and thankful to-day.

Another Fire Lesson.

THAT TERRIBLE COUGH

Now and then the country is taught a lesson at the expense of some unfortunate community. Some times the lesson comes in the form of flood, some times of pestlence, some times of fire. This time it is fire. It is not a new lesson, but it has to be taught anew about once in a decade.

The lesson of the Lynn fire is that a liandsome and thriving city of 50,000

To include local legislation for any community no matter how important, would be to cause dissatisfaction if any were excluded. To include all that may be asked, would be to prolong the session of the Legislature and perhaps to defeat measures of general importance.
